Pedalandariki Illu Housing Scheme

1. Scheme Overview & Objective

The Pedalandariki Illu (meaning "Houses for all the poor") is a flagship welfare housing scheme implemented by the Revenue and Housing Departments of the Government of Andhra Pradesh. The primary objective is to eliminate homelessness by distributing free House Site Pattas, which serve as land ownership documents, and financial grants for constructing sustainable pucca houses. The scheme targets Below Poverty Line (BPL) families across both rural and urban locations.

2. Key Benefits & Structural Allocations

Under this scheme, House Site Pattas are registered completely free of cost exclusively in the name of the female beneficiary of the household, ensuring women's empowerment and land title ownership. Eligible rural households receive a land plot spanning 1.5 Cents, while eligible urban households receive a land plot spanning 1.0 Cent, or they are accommodated in modern layouts managed through APTIDCO. Additionally, financial assistance of Rs. 1,50,000 is provided to each beneficiary as a direct construction grant for raw material procurement and unit construction. Every housing unit constructed must fulfill a minimum plinth area specification of 300 square feet. These houses are clustered inside organized townships known as 'Jagananna Colonies,' which are fully equipped with essential public infrastructure, including drinking water lines, grid electricity, internal roads, and sanitation drainage systems.

3. Complete Eligibility Framework

To qualify, applicants must meet distinct criteria depending on their residency. In rural areas, the household must be identified as Below Poverty Line (BPL) with an annual household income cap falling between Rs. 1,80,000 and Rs. 3,00,000. Their agricultural land holding must not exceed a maximum of 2.5 acres of wet land or 5.0 acres of dry land. For urban areas, the household must be categorized under BPL or Low Income Group, with a maximum annual income cap of Rs. 3,00,000 from all sources. The agricultural land holding limits remain identical to the rural standard: a maximum of 2.5 acres of wet land or 5.0 acres of dry land. Across both rural and urban standards, the applicant family must not own any prior pucca house or plot anywhere in Andhra Pradesh, and they must have never been covered by any previous state or central housing welfare schemes.

4. Mandatory Documentation Checklist

Applicants are required to present several mandatory documents to clear the verification phase. For identity and residency proof, valid Aadhaar Cards of the applicant and all family members are necessary. Poverty authentication requires a White Ration Card or AP Civil Supplies Rice Card. A government-certified Income Certificate is needed to prove the applicant falls within the financial parameters, alongside a formal Residential or Domicile Certificate of Andhra Pradesh. The applicant must also provide an active, Aadhaar-seeded bank account passbook copy to act as the disbursement asset for Direct Benefit Transfer clearing. Finally, a recent passport-sized photograph and a verified active mobile link are required for biometric and record-keeping purposes.

5. Step-by-Step Implementation Workflow

The implementation is executed through a transparent, stage-wise workflow. It begins with an Identification Survey, featuring baseline socio-economic screening conducted via Grama/Ward Sachivalayams and local verification wings. Next, during Verification & Allotment, Revenue Department officials cross-check records to confirm local landless status and validate land availability under Saturation Mode. The third stage is the Patta Handover, where the House Site Patta is registered and formally issued in the name of the household's female head. In the final stage, Stage-Wise Financial Assistance is cleared directly through Direct Benefit Transfer (DBT) pipelines aligned securely into the beneficiary's bank account to prevent leaks and corruption.
